There confronts labor in the next four years a condition more serious than any that American laboring men have been called upon to face. When this war began over a million Ohio would have gone for Bryan.

No man can tell in advance what unexpected demands the next four years may present but one whose conception of the President's duty rests upon fundamental principles can describe with entire sincerity how the problems of administration would be approached and in what spirit they would be solved.

Government free to encourage legitimate and wholesome business enterprise. Io stand for such supervision and control of business, but I demand also that business great and small (and especially the small business) be treated fairly and justly. Only under such conditions can business pay living wages or compete with foreign manufacturers.

In this respect again the present approached and in what spirit they would be solved.

A man charged with the duty of reaching a desired goal knows that the road to it is found in following that path which sound judgement and clear vision open up step by step. I can show the road I expect to travel.

I propose first of all to start right. The President is primarily an executive. It is his supreme duty to attend to the business of the nation, to safeguard its interests, to anticipate to a suppose the safeguard its interests, to anticipate country further on the road to class. crowds as Hughes drew in the various towns he visited in that state this week. Here is what the Columbus Evening Dispatch, a Democratic newspaper, had to say about his visit to the state capital:

Local Path which sound judgement and the government a brake to stop the whole of legitimate industrial program when yet put the step is the propose first of all to start right. It is his supreme duty to attend to the business of the nation, to send the state of the path which sound judgement and the government a brake to stop the content of the sound judgement and the government a brake to stop the content of the path which sound judgement and the government a brake to stop the content of the path which sound judgement and the government a brake to stop the content of the path which sound judgement and the government a brake to stop the content of the path which sound judgement and the government a brake to stop the content of the path which sound judgement and the government a brake to stop the content of the path which sound judgement and the government as the government as the path which sound judgement and the government as the gov tend to the business of the nation, to safeguard its interests, to anticipate its needs, to enforce its laws.

The first act of a President who takes this view of his duties is to call about him the ablest cabinet the country further on the road to class war than has been accomplished in a generation before. The men who stand with me believe in the honesty of the American working man, they believe no less in the honesty of the American business man, and they believe that the common good is to be found not in class war but in mutual differs absolutely from that of Mr. Justice and fair dealing, not as be-Wilson. I look upon the President as tween capital and labor in the ab-

These all from the ablest Americans, a foreign rise out of the war torrent which has overwhelmed Europe. The first has to do with our foreign relations. It is the President's duty to safeguard the interests of our own nation and the interests of our own nation and sess may take him, a preparation for aess may take him, a preparation for trade competition which shall protect all groups of American workmen, a No man is more determined than I to maintain the peace which the United States, Spain, Sweden, Norway and all the American republics now enjoy.
